

Case Study

Tree Preservation Order

A newly served Tree Preservation Order which was a direct constraint on the proposed development.

Detailed Objection

Using Photoshop software we presented before and after images with the trees digitally removed to 'make the case' that the trees were not of high amenity.

Successful Outcome

Our approach, aligned with a detailed replacement planting scheme paved the way for the trees to be removed and the development to proceed.

“Tree Preservation Orders can be daunting but the advice we were given gave us the confidence that Tamla Trees could effectively negotiate on our behalf.”
